The National Business Awards has a long and proud history of honouring top performing companies across a range of industry sectors.

2006's awards, however, focus on leadership excellence. In line with the supporting publication: SA's Top National Companies incorporating New Leaders; the National Business Awards has nominated key male and female business leaders in South Africa.

These awards, as with the direction of the 2005/06 annual publication, identify those men and women who, through their leadership style drive best practice, lead through effective communication, example and passion, and who have taken or are taking their organisations and companies to the very top in their industries.

Quick and easy: Just click on the button of YOUR chosen nominee and automatically register your vote.

The stature and profiles of the nominees reflect both the depth and quality of their leadership in their positions of influence to the South African economy.
